★ ABBA

From L-R: Björn Ulvaeus, Anni-Frid Lyngstad, Agnetha Fältskog, Benny Andersson. The second most commercially successful singing group of all time, they've sold over 380 million singles and albums worldwide. Who's the first? The Beatles, of course.

Not only an R&B legend, Wilson Pickett had 38 entries on the "Hot-100." Funky Broadway was his second biggest hit, after "Land of 1000 Dances."

Neil Sedaka is a "giant" in American popular music. Composer, singer, concert performer, he's done and still does it all.

Carole King's Tapestry has sold 25 million copies to date. You must have one floating around somewhere.

Ray left Atlantic for a more lucrative contract at ABC and had a string of big hits on the white "Hot 100" charts.

The racially integrated Doobie Brothers have more than 40 million album sales to their credit as well as 27 "Hot 100" chart singles.
